TWO FOR SCHOOL BOARD

In the only completely local ballot item facing West Sacramento residents at the polls on Tuesday, voters in the Washington Unified School District will be asked to choose between two candidates to fill the remaining six months of a vacant school board seat.

The News-Ledger presents you with a look at the two candidates, Paul Zolnikov and David Farmer.

David Farmer: community ties & a vow to listen

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

DAVID FARMER

Dave Farmer is no stranger to West Sacramento.

Farmer, 51, is a lieutenant in the West Sacramento Police Department and has lived in the city for forty years. Over those years, he has become involved with a number of local organizations including Little League baseball (where he has managed and coached teams) and the Veterans of Foreign Wars (he was an Army helicopter crew chief in Vietnam).

A candidate for the school board on the June 2 ballot, Farmer is not mounting a serious campaign -- no war chest, no campaign signs and none of his own political advertising. But he thinks enough people in the community may already know enough about him to decide whether to vote for him.

"I can't see asking friends for campaign money for this, because it's only for six months," he said. "If I don't win in June, I'll take another look at whether I will do things differently in November."

Because the term is only for six months, and Farmer would like to be on the school board longer, he is looking at another campaign in November whether he wins or loses next week.

Farmer's main concern as a potential school board member is trying to make the board more responsive to the community and to make the communication between the board and the public go smoother. He hopes to be the kind of school board member who listens carefully to members of the public and treats them with respect, he said.

"You have to listen to the people who come to the meetings and speak, and even if you don't agree with them, you have to be grateful for their input."

Farmer also hopes to help the board work carefully with West Sacramentans towards a school bond. The community has rejected a school bond several times in recent years. Each bond sought to raise money to build a new high school and move Golden State Middle School to a revamped River City High School campus.

"If you're going to have a bond measure -- and we do need a school bond measure -- you've got to tell the public exactly how the money is going to be spent," he said.

Farmer added that one of his priorities if elected to the school board is to begin preparing the West Sacramento soil for another attempt at a school bond measure.

When asked to take a look at two of the school-related ballot measures California residents will be voting on next week -- one on bilingual education and one to limit the schools' administrative spending -- Farmer responded that he is 'no' on both.

Regarding Proposition 223, which attempts to limit the amount of their budgets school districts can spend on administration, Farmer said "this initiative is really to support some of the larger school districts," and the spending rules may not be applicable so districts such as Washington Unified.

"I don't know what our administrative costs are and whether they're above or below the cap (proposed by 223), but this initiative might even require the reduction or elimination of students' transportation," Farmer stated.

Asked about Prop. 227, which mandates how schools should deal with students who don't speak English well, Farmer said he is opposed.

"Part of my concern is this initiative isn't the answer to dealing with trying to get kids

Paul Zolnikov: revise curriculum, involve the parents

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

PAUL ZOLNIKOV

Paul Zolnikov, 42, hopes to increase parent involvement and bring the curriculum at the lower grades in Washington Unified School District "to a higher level."

Those are two of the areas on which Zolnikov would focus if elected to the district's school board next Tuesday, in a contest for a six month term and possible re-election in November. Zolnikov has mounted a limited campaign for the post -- including lawn signs -- but doesn't expect to raise and spend more than a thousand dollars in the campaign.

Zolnikov is an agent for a West Sacramento real estate company, and also has started a janitorial service and an advertising company.

As the person "responsible for monitoring the children's education" in his family with four children, Zolnikov sees schooling as vital.

"Probably it's the most important question or problem we have in life," he commented Tuesday. "It's going to determine how our children are prepared for adult life. I see a lot of opportunities to improve it and make it better."

In Zolnikov's family, this includes a somewhat unorthodox approach to high school.

His son, 17, graduates this year from River City High School after only three years. A 16-year old daughter at the school expects to graduate next year -- her third -- and the family's two elementary school-age children are also expected to complete high school in three years.

"If you take seven periods and summer school, you can easily graduate in three years, even taking all college preparation classes," Zolnikov explained.

He added that it is the lower levels of the district's schools which most concern him.

"I like what's going on at the high school," he said. "I'm concerned about the middle school and elementary school. In high school, I like the curriculum. In the middle and elementary school, in my opinion, it's too easy in most cases. We have to reconsider the curriculum. We need to make it at a higher level."

Some of Zolnikov's perspectives come from his own history abroad. He, his wife, and their three oldest children came from Russia (before the Soviet Union broke apart) in 1990, settling in West Sacramento. The fourth child was born here.

There are contrasts in schooling between the two cultures.

"Here, you can receive a high school diploma with just basic math classes and no precalculus, geometry or higher math. In the Soviet Union, it was easier for parents because there was just one curriculum for everybody. Parents (here) should know more about curriculum and become involved."

Zolnikov added that he is encouraged because Golden State Middle School is hiring a counselor whose sole duty will be to work on involving parents at the school.

Another hope for Zolnikov is to continue with the class size reduction program already underway due to efforts by district officials and made possible with state funding. The program should be extended to kindergarten, he said.

"In kindergarten, it's still 30 students to one teacher, and we have to make it 20 to one," Zolnikov stated.

Zolnikov said he supports State Proposition 227, which prescribes how schools should deal with limited English-speaking students.

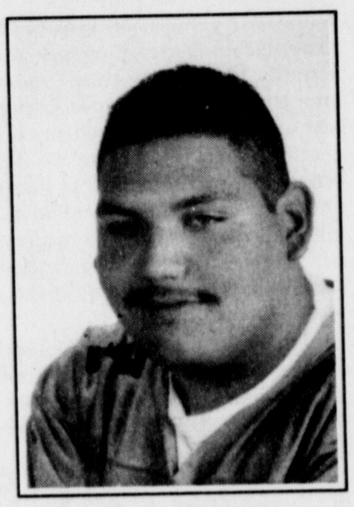
About Town:

Alex Vasquez: a young man with a special grandmother

By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor



ALEX VASQUEZ

When the bell rings at River City High School, all the students hurry out of the rooms they're in and begin heading for their next class. Most walk with purpose, and those who have a long ways to go even jog or run. But Alex Vasquez has always rolled his way to his next class.

Alex, who will be graduating from River City in a few weeks, has cerebral palsy and has spent most of his life in a wheelchair. The most common disability resulting from cerebral palsy is damage to the brain before or during birth and it usually outwardly manifests itself in muscular incoordination and speech disturbances.

"Alex was born prematurely," explained his grandmother, Isabel Vasquez. "Because he wasn't a full-term baby, his lungs weren't developed properly and he had problems with his nervous system. But we didn't really notice anything until he was about eight months old. Then his legs began crossing and his hamstring muscles began to tighten. The doctors did two surgeries to try and correct the problem, but it always hurt him to stand up. When he did try to walk, he did it on the inside of his feet, and he's also had surgery to try and correct that problem. No matter what, though, Alex has always had a good attitude and not let his disability get him down."

"Being in a wheelchair has never really bothered me all that much," said Alex. "It's been this way ever since I can remember and I guess I've gotten used to it. It was a little tough when I was young because some of the kids made fun of me and I couldn't do all the things everyone else did, but other than that, it's not been that bad."

Because of his cerebral palsy, Alex's day is a little different than his friends. "I usually have to get up by about six o'clock in the morning because it takes me a long time to get dressed and ready for school. Then a special wheelchair bus picks me up and I'm usually the only one on it. After school I have to rest for a couple of hours, then I take my bath and after that I do what most everyone else my age does -- watch TV or listen to music."

"I've known Alex since the 7th grade," said Marty Trevino, one of Alex's good friends. "He's got a really great personality. He's nice, and funny, and he always has something to say. I give him a lot of credit. If I was in his shoes, I don't think I could always be in such a good mood. He's just one of the guys as far as all of his friends are concerned."

> 'If I was in his shoes, I don't think I could always be in such a good mood. He's just one of the guys as far as all of his friends are concerned.'
> – MARTY TREVINO

Mike Gillin, another one of Alex's friends, said "Alex makes the most of what he's got. He's an all-around nice guy, and he's honest, too. If you loan him something, he gives it back. He likes to laugh and have a good time. He may be in a wheelchair, but as far as I'm concerned, he's completely normal."

Alex has lived with his grandmother since he was eight years old and she says one of Alex's problems is that he is too popular with his friends. She often has to remind them to let Alex do for himself. "Alex needs to push his own wheelchair," said Isabel. "It helps him lose weight

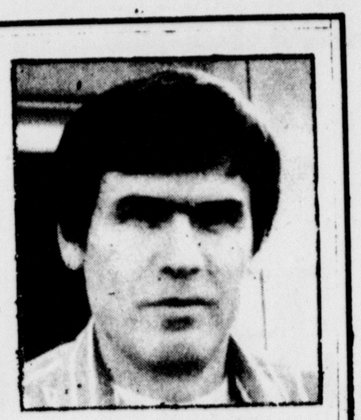
Remembering a few soldiers who didn't make it home

NOTE: The following column first appeared in the News-Ledger a few days after Memorial Day, 1996.



By Daryl Fisher

Another Memorial Day has passed. The politicians made their speeches, many of them quite moving. The cemeteries were mowed and fresh flowers placed on some of the graves. Flags flew everywhere, some at half-mast on tall poles, some floating silently in a soft breeze in front of homes where the pain is still felt.

The Indy 500 was run. Hard working people everywhere made plans to get out of town. Barbecues were fired up. Young boys and girls went camping and swimming. The oil companies thoughtfully raised the price of gas, as they always do for the traveling public at this time of year. The weather was great and everyone I talked to had a pretty good 3-day weekend. Thankfully, I guess, the world never skips a beat.

It wasn't that many years ago that I absolutely hated Memorial Day. I thought of it as nothing more than another societal celebration of war, dedicated to reinforcing much of the garbage we see in movies, or read about in books. I was convinced that if civilized man was ever going to get rid of war, then the very first thing we all needed to do was stop glorifying it, especially the dying part.

As time moved on, though, I came to understand that the real reason almost every new generation gets to fight in some war someplace is because people, men in particular, actually like it. By that I mean that for many men throughout the ages, going off to fight in a war was the biggest adventure of their lives. They got to travel to places they would have never seen otherwise, prove (or fail to prove) to themselves and others that they were indeed men, and meet all kinds of exotic people, especially of the opposite sex, who would have never popped up in their real lives. They don't call it the spoils of war for nothing.

But after I came to the reluctant conclusion that mankind will keep having wars because a whole lot of people truly enjoy them, not to mention that they have also been historically good for business and very effective at keeping the world's population from exploding, I started looking at Memorial Day in a totally new light. I turned my attention away from the politicians and the profiteers and the tellers of exaggerated war stories, and towards the chiseled cold marble which simply reads, "All gave some, some gave all."

More specifically, I turned my attention to SGT James R. Woods, KIA 11Aug69. He loved good music and quiet conversation. He had taken his R&R in Hawaii so he could be with his fiance, a girl he had known since the 5th grade. They couldn't imagine life without each other; WO1 Henry J. Vad, KIA 6Nov69. He was fearless to a fault and everyone was in awe of the incredible feats he could make a helicopter do. He was always flying at tree-top level and no one could believe that a single shot from a rifle on the ground had actually brought him down; SSG James R. Potter, KIA 11Sep69. He knew everything there was to know about soldiering, and he worried more about the lives of the men in his care than he ever did about his own; PFC Michael H. Lawhon, KIA 11Aug69. He was kind and gentle and could hardly wait to get back to his beloved family and pets. His parents were never the same after they were told he wouldn't be coming home; SP4 Eric T. Harshberger, KIA 1Nov69. He was so funny, everybody's friend, and not the least bit worried about making it back to the world in one piece; SP4 August F. Hamilton, KIA 28Jul69. He was a veteran. Everyone felt safe around him. He didn't want to crawl over that exposed mound, but he knew he had no choice; SP5 James L. Downing, KIA 6Nov69. He had seen enough. He was getting short. He didn't want to be out in the field anymore; SGT Allen H. Caldwell, KIA 17Nov69. He was a giant of a man who liked to joke about how his huge frame made him too good a target; PFC William J. Brown, KIA 17Nov69. He was confident everything would be okay once he had been in Vietnam for awhile and gotten used to his surroundings; and Kit Carson Scout Chin Nguyen, KIA 7Sep69. His smile was so wonderfully contagious and he was absolutely determined to live free, like all men did in America, a country that only went to war for the right reasons, and never lost.

Ten tiny grains of sand on the terrible beach of war, real people, not statistics, and each of them would have given anything, absolutely anything, to be alive on Memorial Day, 1996.

Returning to the skies near you

The skies over the Sierra Foothills and Sacramento will roar to the sound of eight aircraft engines attached to two fully restored WWII Army Air Corps bombers. The distinctive throaty sound of 6400 horsepower will be heard over the area as the planes arrive from Vacaville on Thursday afternoon, May 28.

B24J "All American" (foreground) & B17G "Nine-O-Nine"

The two well known aircraft, a Boeing B-17G named "Nine-O-Nine" and the world's only flying example of the B-24J Liberator known, as the "All-American" will land at Lincoln Regional Airport, just off Highway 65 north of Roseville, about 3 p.m. Thursday. They will be on display through Sunday the 31st of May until about 1 p.m. They will be parked in front of the Lincoln Regional Airport Office just west of Commander Bill's hanger.

The public is invited to tour through the insides of the two historic restored aircraft with a requested donation of $7 for adults and $3 for children under age 12. There is no charge for viewing them from the outside. These donations help keep these two pieces of aviation history flying for the non-profit Collings Foundation of Stow, Mass. Veterans of the Air War in WWII will be on hand to answer questions.

For those a bit more adventurous, flights on these beautiful aircraft are available to qualified foundation contributors. Donations of $300 or more bring flight crew status and are fully tax deductible. The flight lasts about 45 minutes and is either morning or evening prior to or just after the display hours. Contact Iris Taggart at 455-4412 or Doug Taggart at 448-4109 for more information.

The planes will be visible in the sky around the Sacramento area during their stay.

In local government

The West Sacramento Parks and Community Services Commission will hold a joint meeting with the Economic Development Advisory Commission at 6 p.m. today (May 27) at city council chambers, 2101 Stone Blvd.

The agenda will include discussion on the West Sacramento Riverfront Park, after which the economic development advisory commission will continue alone to discuss the "anatomy of a successful business recruitment: Affymetrix," 1997-98 business retention and expansion results and routine items.

The regular meeting of the West Sacramento Housing Advisory Commission scheduled for June 1 has been cancelled. The next meeting will be July 13 at 6 p.m. at city hall.

A Congressional subcommittee chaired by Rep. John Doolittle will meet today (May 27) at 10 a.m. at the state capitol, Room 4202, to hold a hearing on Rep. Matsui's HR 3698, which calls for public safety improvements to Folsom Dam and downstream levees.

RC tennis sees league action

From River City High School

River City High School's tennis team dominated portions of last week's Golden Empire League singles and doubles tournament. Six Raiders qualified for the Sac-Joaquin Section Division III Individual Tournament held later last week in Stockton.

Senior girls singles players Douangchanh Lattasima and Aenoy Xayasone, and boys doubles teams of seniors Sarom Phoung and Jeff Wright, and juniors Aaron Potnick and PHoungeun Souvannaphoungeun were RC's representatives in Stockton after competing against the G.E.L.'s best at Lindhurst High School.

In girls singles, Lattasima cruised past Lindhurst's Pang Kong and Golden Sierra's Sara Dulany to reach the final. Meanwhile, teammate Xayasone was picking off the other seeded players in the other half of the draw. When the two Raiders met in the final, it was Lattasima who prevailed, 6-2, 6-3.

Both Raider boys' doubles teams breezed into the finals to face each other. In a match with some great tennis, juniors Aaron Potnick and PHoungeun Souvannaphoungeun came from

The Utah Jazz swooped the Los Angeles Lakers and now are sitting at home waiting for finals, while the Pacers and the Bulls continue with their all-out WAR!

"Swoop" is a new word my 11-year old son invented last Saturday, after watching the Lakers get swept in four games, and it also describes the terrible whipping administered by the "Hair-mail Man" Malone and the Utah Jazz. The Jazz, who lost in the championship finals last year to the Bulls, are going to be well-rested and all Jazzed up for the Eastern Conference champions this year!

Meanwhile, the Eastern Conference championship series is tied at two games apiece. The Bulls won the first two games with ease at home, while the Pacers won game three at home by two points -- 1-7-105. The fourth game of the series got really interesting for basketball fans. It was Miller time! Reggie Miller sank a game-winning three point basket in the closing seconds on Sunday to seal a Pacers' 96-94 victory and tie the series at two games apiece. The series moves back to Chicago on Wednesday night (8 p.m.) for game five, and then the Pacers will host the Bulls on Friday night for game six. If necessary, game seven will be played in the Windy City. Remember, I picked the Pacers in seven!

Good news and bad news for Kings fans! The good news is the Sacramento Kings have offered foreign star Predrag Stojakovic a three-year deal worth about $3.93 million under the rules of the NBA collective bargaining agreement. The bad news is the Greek League's 1998 MVP is being courted by a wealthy Italian team, which is offering Predrag a three-year deal worth between $5.5 million and $7.5 million. What a drag for Kings fans!

The A's are headed for a weekend series in Kansas City and then move on to Minnesota for a brief two-game stint before returning home to face the division leading Texas Rangers on June 3.

The Giants, who trail by two games, are closing in on the division-leading San Diego Padres. The Giants will return home on Thursday night for a four game series with their new arch rival, the Arizona Diamondbacks. Sunday's game on May 31 is "Youth League Day," with free waistbands for the kids. The Giants return home May 28, after a long nine-game road trip that included a 17-inning victory over "Big Mac" McGwire and the St. Louis Cardinals. Can you believe McGwire is on pace to hit 83 home runs?

For you baseball historians, "Big Mac" has a new record. McGwire has become the first major league player to hit 25 home runs before June 1.

How many home runs do you think he'll have at the All-Star break on July 6? Well, with 38 games left before the break, I'll guess Big Mac will attack another 13 home runs. My guess is 38 HRs!

See ya next week!!

We'd love to print your sports results.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

It's more complex than 'don't forget to vote'

Usually about this time, the News-Ledger joins the chorus of people and institutions cheering you on to "get out and vote" next week.

But wait a minute -- some of you really shouldn't vote, at least not on everything on the ballot.

Your vote doesn't do any good unless you first become informed on the issues. If you don't know the issues or the candidates, your vote simply becomes a "random" force in the elections process, or (even worse) simply a product of political advertising. Either way, this uninformed vote does not advance democracy.

So ideally, we should not cast a ballot where we are uninformed. Our first duty is to learn about the issues and the candidates, and only then should we vote.

As far as the June, 1998, primary goes, you'd better hurry. Only six more days to become an informed voter.

Letters to the Editor

What's wrong with making money?

It is most unfortunate that some individuals in our community can't associate anything but evil with wealth. Most people don't accumulate wealth by ripping people off, winning the lottery, or receiving a big inheritance. Most folks that have accumulated more than your average share of lute got it by working hard and saving their hard-earned money, and in the process have created the jobs and paid the taxes that keep our government working. In a recent letter to the editor, we see a community member urging us not to vote for two gubernatorial candidates simply because they are wealthy. Why is being a wealthy candidate such a problem? More likely than not, the wealthy candidate is harder working, more focused, and possibly more intelligent than his financially mediocre opponent. One would think that qualities like the ones mentioned above would be desirable when choosing a government for our state. On election day, you can vote for who you want, but I'll be casting my vote for the guy who wants to get ahead.

Vote for Falzone

We are being asked to select a new person to head the Yolo County Office of Education, when we vote on June 2.

One of the candidates will be able to take the reigns immediately, because she has served as Assistant Superintendent of Schools since 1996. This person is Suzanne Falzone.

Only Suzanne Falzone has helped to develop many of the programs administered by the County Office. Only Suzanne Falzone has overseen countywide court and community schools, teen parent centers and ROP programs. Only Suzanne Falzone has been named Administrator of the Year by the Yolo County School Boards Association, in 1992. Only Suzanne Falzone has proven that she has the knowledge and experience to assume the position of Yolo County Superintendent of Schools.

On a personal note, Suzanne Falzone is a genuinely sincere, warm and kind person who has dedicated her life to education. How lucky the residents of Yolo County will be in selecting a candidate who is superbly qualified and extraordinarily good-hearted. Please join us in voting for Suzanne Falzone for Yolo County Superintendent of Schools on June 2.

Vote for me

What is the future of county government in California? Caught between the immediacy of cities and the distance of state and federal government, counties are sort of like a middle child. Our departments and divisions read like a laundry list of subjects left over after more favored players had already been selected by others.

And yet, as your Third District Supervisor these past three and a half years, it has been my job to try to make sense of the organization in place when I took office, to help it evolve to where it is today, and to keep working with my colleagues and staff to insure that it heads in the direction it needs to go in light of continuing challenges that lie ahead.

My business success following almost twenty-fie years in the private sector did not prepare me for the more archaic way that business is conducted in county government. So, overcoming frustration, I have worked tirelessly together with my colleagues and our dedicated county staff to bring modern management practices to bear on county operations.

Some examples of this include adopting a quality orientation that involves staff at all levels working together to design organizational changes that make sense. This method has produced the harmonious consolidation of six former departments into three. We also now expect our department heads to be excellent managers, not just subject matter experts.

We have adopted a mission statement that begins with the phrase "doing right by people." This relates to our attitude towards those we serve as well as to our attitude towards each other. I believe the workplace has become more humane as we have embraced this concept. I have spoken many times before various groups of our almost 1400 employees, acknowledging my appreciation for the job being done and urging everyone to keep developing their skills so that they individually and we collectively can remain competitive and function in these challenging times.

As your supervisor, I share the responsibility with my colleagues of looking always to the future to insure that we are well-positioned for our constantly evolving responsibilities. Paper abounds in government. How do we get it under control, reduce it, and get public information out to everyone who needs it and has a right to it? And how do we do this in the least costly fashion?

The answer is both simple and complex. We have to use the Internet both for communicating among ourselves within government and with all our fellow citizens. The complex part is putting this technology together in a way that works for the many diverse parties involved. I am proud to report that we are making considerable progress. Soon you will have access to the agenda of the Board of Supervisors plus all the written staff reports, just as I do. Sounds great, doesn't it? And after the meeting, I will not have to stuff documents in a crowded file cabinet. After all, every document will always be available electronically to be retrieved whenever needed.

So this is our plan for becoming more efficient. This is one of the most important things I have been working on. Yes, I am in my second year as chairman of the Yolo County Water Resources Association. Yes, I am Vice-Chairman of the Sacramento Area Council of Governments. And I sit on the Yolo Solano Air Quality Management District. And I help with YoloBus, and I'm on the Local Agency Formation Commission working on annexations, etc.

But I think I am most proud of the way I have worked with my colleagues and staff to bring a new spirit to county operations. My friends laugh when I quote Tom Peters where he says, "If it ain't broke, break it!" What Peters means is that just because it still works doesn't mean we're doing it in the best way we could do it. With limited resources always a challenge, we have no excuse other than to search out the very best and most efficient ways of fulfilling our responsibilities to our citizens.

Friends, I love this job. I thank you for letting me serve you, and I look forward to serving you for a second term. Thank you.

Rebuttal from Hope Herr

Re: David Reed's letter, News-Ledger, May 20

The only David Reed I ever knew was a private attorney based in Woodland. We worked together on Housing Discrimination cases during the Reagan years. Though employed by the government's Fair Housing Program, I often had to refer and pursue suits through the courts because the Republican administration put such a low priority on civil rights. Less than one percent of the discrimination complaints filed were actually litigated by the govt's. system of recourse. Wealthy and powerful housing providers had Reagan's HUD administration effectively in check (head official Pierce later went to prison for illegally award govt. contracts). So my critic must be a different David Reed unless he has an evil twin.

Oops! There I go again - after Mr. Reed chided me to "leave the name calling in the playground." But since he called to President "a womanizer, a habitual liar and the sorriest excuse of a president ever," I can only assume we are playing in the same sand box.

What a surprise to find anyone still praising Reaganomics. Even dyed-in-the-wool conservatives packed that theory away in moth balls. The current economic recovery is based on a Democratic budget that was passed in 1992 without one Republican vote. Mr. Reed must be earning a pretty penny if he is one of the elite few that actually enjoyed a tax break under Reagan. Most of us had to wait for Clinton to get some relief.

Reed praises Starr for allowing the First Family the "privilege" of having their personal living quarters searched by an attorney. Starr knew perfectly well that Americans would be outraged to see the peoples White House torn asunder by a bunch of political hacks. The attorney who did complete the search said she felt "sleazy" rummaging through a teenage girl's (Chelsea) underwear drawer and forced to skim a young girl's personal diary. Most civilized Americans (one poll - 82%) regard Starr's treatment of Mrs. Clinton as an unprecedented insult and personal attack on the historical institution of First Lady.

It would take too much space to rebut all of Reed's false statements about Susan McDougal. After six years, anyone who cares already understands the truth of this sorry situation. Suffice it to say, it often takes just one person to stand up to injustice and save the day. Time will not only vindicate but honor her stand.

I confess to never watching "Hogan's Heroes" (the holocaust as a basis for a sit-com?) which Reed uses as a yardstick to define gestapo tactics. Starr forces parents to testify against children, book stores to turn over personal reading lists, persons held without counsel, and illegal wirings. He uses family secrets as leverage to obtain his version of the "truth" from witnesses, and sanctions monetary pay-offs for "cooperation." He obtained credit histories and detailed personal histories of the members of the grand jury (lest he need a little blackmail material to insure they rubber stamp his indictments?). Susan has been paraded around in body chains and her wayward ex-husband died while in solitary confinement for not agreeing to a drug test. Yes, I call these gestapo tactics.

One correction of my last letter. Republicans have spent one hundred million dollars on 45 separate investigations (with hundreds of subsequent hearings) plus three more proposed just this week. They accused President Clinton of murder, drug dealing and now Treason. Perhaps it's time to redecorate the walls of congressional chambers with some protective padding. These people have gone postal (new word learned from my daughter - meaning loony tunes).

Mr. Reed says a do-nothing congress is best. Of course the rich don't need the government. They see the law as a big nuisance that may curtail their capitalistic right to pursue unbridled profits. The super rich (10% of the population) own 90% of the wealth. The rest of the population (that's us) are expected to share what's left. Our only hope is to pool our money in a central source we call "the government" and try to meet our urgent needs. Pardon us if we worry about the "little things" like healthcare, good public schools, and social security for our old age.

It's a real drag to almighty, self-sufficient Republicans but most of us elected our representatives hoping they may actually go to Washington and accomplish something. I can't afford to support even the fairest Republican because in this imperfect world -- the votes on crucial legislation always breakdown along strict partisan lines (and it is the final tally that counts). So, once again, come November, I urge readers to look at the big picture and vote a straight Democratic ticket.

Pro-Falzone

On June 2, Yolo County voters are being asked to select a new Superintendent to head the Yolo County Office of Education. The one candidate who will be able to effectively take the reigns immediately is Suzanne Falzone.

We have witnessed tremendous growth in the Yolo County Office of Education, particularly during the past eight years. Suzanne Falzone, who has served as Assistant Superintendent of Schools since 1996 and in top management since 1992, has shown strong leadership in development many of the programs administered by the County Office. She has written grants which have brought in over $3,000,000 to develop programs for children throughout Yolo County and has served as Director and Principal of County-wide Alternative Education programs. She was named Administrator of the Year by the Yolo County School Boards Association in 1992.

Responsible for over 100 different services to Yolo County schools, the County Office has built its capacity to be a major resource to schools but must do more to improve education. Suzanne Falzone has proven that she has the knowledge and experience to lead the way.

These are just a few reasons why Suzanne Falzone should be elected on June 2. We urge you to vote Suzanne Falzone for Yolo County Superintendent of Schools.

Vote for Milbrodt, Assessor

As president of the UCD Young Democrats (1994-1996), our organization relied on Bob Milbrodt's guidance in growing our membership from 3 to 92 active members in just 5 months. Following his advice, we went on to win 8 of the 8 campaigns we contested and the offices of President and Vice President of our student government.

In 1994, when our members wanted to campaign for democrats, it was Bob who showed us that Vic Fazio was the one most in need. He led 20-23 people every Saturday and Sunday to canvas for Vic in Vacaville, Sacramento. West Sacramento, Davis, and Woodland. We placed signs, made phone calls, and registered over 4100 new voters, all under his direction. Imagine our surprise when the margin of victory over Tim LeFever was about 4000 votes. Bob was right, we made the difference.

When Vic Fazio asked our members to protest Tim LeFever's bus tour through the district, we tied red ribbons around our mouths and waved placards and harassed Tim at every stop. Vic didn't want our actions or the hidden camera associated with his campaign. In contrast, Bob disapproved of such tactics, advising "if a candidate can't do something in the open, then it shouldn't be done." When Bob organized an event he was always the first to start, working beside us every step, and the last to leave. And, when we came under fire, from intolerant and racist democrats, for our opposition to Proposition 187, it was Bob, and only Bob, who stood in our defense. Bob's tremendous work for democratic candidates and causes and his role as an ombudsman for competing interests in the party has unfortunately gone unrecognized.

Bob Milbrodt has demonstrated successful organization skills, genuine leadership abilities, and true strength of character. We learned from our mistakes, but we learned even more from his example. Yolo County should be proud to have Bob Milbrodt for Assessor.

Expand bus service

At our May 20 West Sac City Council meeting Mr. Terry Bassett, Executive Director of Yolo County Transportation District/YCTD gave a briefing on attempts to improve bus service in West Sacramento without needing more money; i.e., more effective use of our budget monies. Total increased ridership, fiscal year to date (through March) for West Sac's fixed routes was 14% while #42's intercity ridership which now includes airport bus service increased 42%, or by over 85,000 rides. Even the #240 - dntn. Sac to/from West Sac.'s Industrial area experienced a 58% increase...that's the route that has only 2 morning and 2 afternoon runs - mainly for our 8 to 5 workers...and that's where many jobs continue to "go begging" as those who otherwise can and will work those jobs do not have access to/from same.

Process include(d): 1) Review driver comments and passenger service reports/April; 2) YCTD Board and City Council briefings/April-May; 3) Meeting with Board Members/May; 4) Surveys and Workshops with West Sac Employers/May-June; 5) Draft plan of proposed changes/June; 6) Public meeting at West Sac library/July; 7) Public hearing and approval/August; 8) Marketing and signage (changes)/Sept.; 9) Implementation/Oct.-Nov. Not surprisingly, other routes' changes will coincide with #42, the Airport line, so as to result in better timed connections, i.e., less waiting for those of us who take the bus.

Riders and businesses need not wait to receive questionnaires, etc. to let the powers that be know as to how they believe bus service should be improved, remembering we either must remain within present YCTD's present budget or that increase in overall service must be met by other/new funding. Comments may be sent to YCTD, City Council/City Hall, Sacramento Area Council of Governments/SACOG or to all 3.

To expand service without increased costs, service should be changed so that we: 1) Quit having 2 buses covering West Capitol Ave. in same direction within 5 minutes of each other; 2) More frequent and later service to/from Industrial Area; 3) Later service to/from Southport, maybe with a "Southport loop" off #41 when that driver need not return to starting point within hour; 4) later local service to coincide with #42 Airport run; 5) Later local Sunday service/adjust last #41's runs so they coincide with earlier runs; 6) More local Saturday service...while fewer riders are going to/from work, many more are shopping and buses are too crowded; and 7) Restore those bus stops with shelters (facing north) at 920/930 Westacre Road/WUSD Headquarters Buildings - where parking is very overcrowded during business hours.

Who knows, maybe with welfare reform we can find some federal grant monies to fund some such changes which would succeed if given a pilot chance.

Other riders, businesses; let's hear your thoughts or send them to one or all 3: YCTD, SACOG, or City Hall.

Ayala is better of two good candidates

We are fortunate to have a choice of two excellent candidates for Yolo County Superintendent of Schools office and we can be confident that whichever candidate is elected, we will have competent leadership for the next four years. For met it was a difficult choice because I have great respect for both candidates. I have worked with both candidates in my position of state consultant for California's schools, and as a grant writer/evaluator for Yolo County Superintendent of Schools office. After much consideration, I have decided to vote for Dr. Jorge Ayala for the office of Yolo County Superintendent of Schools.

Ms. Suzanne Falzone is a dedicated, intelligent, creative individual who has given much to this community. She was experience in current Instructional programs and administrative practices. She has established contacts throughout the state and knows our county. She has worked diligently with and for Dr. Elizabeth Zemmels over the past eight years. She is a leader and a team player.

There is another dedicated, intelligent, creative individual, Dr. Jorge Ayala, who has given much to this community and knows the different dimensions of Yolo County, as well as the state of California. He is also a leader and a team player. Along with his solid experience as a teacher and administrator, the accomplishment of his doctoral degree has provided him a wide knowledge base upon which to make sound administrative decisions. He has identified areas where change is needed. He is knowledgeable and has an understanding of our history, knows where we are now, and has a vision for the future.

In my opinion, Dr. Jorge Ayala is the best candidate to lead us in the next decade of projected growth. His gentle, firm personality, his attention to detail, his academic background and mastery of the Spanish language serve him well. A vote for Dr. Ayala is a vote for administrative leadership that will bring out the best in our school districts and guide the education community on a course that is required to develop our greatest resources -- young people -- for greatness in discovering new opportunities and in solving the problems that confront our society. I believe the time is right and that Yolo County needs Dr. Jorge Ayala for Superintendent of Schools!

Beeman for Congress

On June 2, 1998 the residents of West Sacramento have the opportunity to vote for one of the most respected people in Yolo County for Congress. Howard Beeman was born and raised in Woodland. He is a decorated veteran who has farmed in the county for over 25 years. While doing so, he developed successful practices for growing tomatoes, alfalfa and wheat without pesticides. He worked to pass legislation that established the UC Davis Sustainable Agricultural Research Education Program. Currently, he is converting a substantial portion of his own land into wetland habitat for wildlife.

Beeman is seeking our support for the Democratic nomination for the 3rd Congressional District, and he is the best candidate in the field. He recognizes the urgency of improving education, protecting the environment and preservation farmland.

Most importantly, Beeman understands that there is a serious threat that CALFED will be used to ship this district's water to Southern California. He is committed to keep our water here for our farms, wetlands, and our communities. In other words, he will not sacrifice our quality of life for the benefit of Southern California developers.

Beeman is one of those longtime residents who make us proud to live in Yolo County. So, I urge people in West Sacramento to join me in voting June 2, 1998 for Howard Beeman, Democrat.

Pfanner for Clerk/Recorder

Yolo County needs Carolyn Pfanner as Clerk/Recorder.

Carolyn Pfanner has demonstrated to me, in the past 20 years of our friendship, that she is an intelligent, dedicated woman who stands up for what she knows is right and cares enough to pursue justice when she sees it's being thwarted. She's fairminded and direct. She's never been afraid of hard work and knows how to get things fixed.

I really got to know Carolyn about 17 years ago when we worked together to convince the Davis School Board to reopen rural Fairfield School. She has always been a wonderful community resource, leading 4H projects in cooking and gardening, encouraging others to become leaders, too, writing funny poems to make a political point. Carolyn and her husband have raised two fine daughters, both receiving college degrees this month, but she has worked almost as hard to help children in less fortunate families succeed as well.

It was Carolyn's idea to get high school students involved in the polling places, a program that has given a boost to young people to take more interest in voting. She has spent a great deal of time studying Yolo County's problems with counting votes correctly nd figuring out how to improve safeguards.

Please vote for Carolyn Pfanner for County Clerk.

What the schools need

Our school districts have had an inordinate amount of turnover at the highest levels in the past few year and some are still recovering from the lack of coherent leadership this caused. The vote June 2 for a new Yolo County Superintendent of Schools presents an opportunity to make a positive change. Voters will now have to determine which county superintendent candidate has the necessary attributes, track record and leadership skills to be able to support local districts, provide coherence and accountability and still improve the overall educational system. For the ordinary voter, arriving at such a decision won't be easy. In today's reality, candidates sway voters with an array of simplistic cliches, gimmicks and quick fixes. We need to read beyond the rhetoric and look at the successful track record of Suzanne Falzone.

A Benchmark is needed to determine where the candidates stand on relevant issues and whether or not they have the qualifications, demonstrated ability and political will to involve parents and the total educational community to address the County's current educational needs effectively. In my broad experience in education I have found these to be some useful criteria to recommend for such a benchmark:

Leadership: A successful candidate for the office of county superintendent of schools should have demonstrated the qualities of foresight, creativity, flexibility and leadership skills. It is essential that the new superintendent is open and receptive to the concerns and ideas of parents, community based organizations, public agencies such as social services and probation, and advocate vigorously for creative policies that will improve the quality of education services. The problems facing public education demand a much broader scope of ideas and cooperation than can be realized within the philosophic boundaries developed at a single school site.

Priorities: One of the barriers to structuring an effective education system is the diversity of our population. Yolo County's communities could accurately be described as melting pots of religious, moral, ethnic and financial differences in which nothing ever melts. We tend to focus negatively on each other's differences and draw apart, rather than building on inherent cultural diversity to strengthen and support each other. The new county superintendent should have demonstrated a commitment to ensuring that all school children - whether rich or poor, male or female, regardless of ability, ethnic background, or primary language - get the kind of education and support that will motivate and enable them to achieve to the maximum extent of their abilities and to successfully transition into adult life.

School safety: The superintendent must have shown unwavering commitment to help develop and implement strategies to ensure that every school is safe for its children and staff. These strategies must be locally developed and supported at all levels of the educational, social and political system.

Finance: The superintendent must be able to provide the necessary leadership to assure adequate financial resources are available to schools to meet their requirements. This means providing guidance, accessing adequate amounts of state funding, winning grants, and tapping into federally funded resources to maximize benefit to students.

The upcoming election provides an opportunity to move toward the educational excellent that responsible citizens desire and all children deserve. Failure to measure up -- by voters or the superintendent -- will place at risk the county's quality of life and econimc future of all our children. I hope you will join me in supporting proven leadership, positive change, Suzanne Falzone.

Falzone for Superintendent

June 2nd gives each registered person the opportunity to elect Suzanne Falzone to head the Yolo County Office of Education as Yolo County Superintendent of Schools. Her career has include various levels of education to our children in Yolo County. Suzanne is the person to elect. She has the leadership and experience necessary to take us all into the year 2000. Her ability to bring funds into the county has been proven. Suzanne has served as director of many programs that have benefitted our youth. She has the ability to use this time of tight budget constraints and scare resources to benefit the public. She has proven herself already beyond a shadow of a doubt.

I have watched her progress and dedication. I have been a teacher in the Davis School District for the last thirty-seven years. Suzanne will continue to work for the betterment of each child in our county. Join with me, and vote for Suzanne Falzone, for Yolo County Superintendent of Schools.

DOROTHY PETERSON

Christensen for Public Guardian

Only Lynn Christensen is the suitably qualified candidate to be Yolo County's Public Guardian. Lynn is the highly regarded owner of Parcel Dispatch PDQ in Davis, the prosperous business he founded almost 20 years ago.

Along with Laura, his wife, and his three children, Lynn has become the consummate business person in Davis, highly respected and dedicated to many of the good causes in Yolo County. He has served on the Board of Directors of the Mental Health Association of Yolo County, including two terms as present. He has served as a Board member of the Davis Downtown Business Association, the Davis Rotary Club, and the Yolo County Arts Council. He has a degree in political science, and a proven record in honest and successful business administration.

But what qualifies him even more for the elected office of Public Guardian is his interest in people in need, his dedication to any task he undertakes, and his absolute integrity. There is not an ounce of political manipulation in his being. His sole purpose for asking you to vote for his election is to serve those people who need an honest, compassionate, and dedicated person in the Public Guardian office. We citizens of Davis who know Lynn Christensen can attest to his ability and his wholehearted will to do the right thing for the clients who desperately need the Public Guardian service. Please vote Lynn Christensen into this important office on June 2.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF JACK GOMES
CASE NUMBER P98000138

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of JACK GOMES:

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by KEVIN GOMES in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that KEVIN GOMES be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on 6/24/98 at 8:30 a.m. in Dept. 7, 725 Court Street, Woodland, CA 95695.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a "Request for Special Notice" (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A "Request for Special Notice" form is available from the court clerk.

49er star Brent Jones gives teens a boost

JONES signs autographs at West Sacramento appearance

From Second Mile

He came. He saw. He stood perfectly still and winced while a child attempted to shoot a paper cup off his head with a Nerf dart gun.

He was 49er legend Brent Jones, and his visit to West Sacramento on May was everything it was cracked up to be, and more. Signing autographs and shaking hands at an enthusiastic pace, Jones drew more than 140 guests to Our Lady of Grace School for the S'Mile Builder Dinner, a benefit for the Second Mile Teen Center.

Jones was joined at the dinner by, among others, West Sacramento Mayor Wes Beers, KOVR sports director John Henk, and former 49er Eddie Lewis, who now sells insurance in West Sacramento. More than 20 local teenagers, from the Second Mile Club and the Project Foster Mentorship Program, served tri-tip steak dinners to the guests. Lt. Dave Farmer and Rick Mayoral of D&R Barbecue handled the catering, and received a unanimous thumbs-up all around.

Jones did a little of everything at the dinner -- signing autographs for more than 45 minutes, drawing raffle tickets, and auctioning off a football signed by Jerry Rice and Steve Young. He also had the job of drawing assignments from the Magic Plunger -- a sacred implement of the Second Mile Club -- and giving them to guests at the head table. Henk's attempt to spell out his last name cheerleader-style -- "Gimme an H! Gimme at E!" -- was a chiropractor's nightmare, but a delight for everyone else watching. Brent's own assignment was to play William Tell with a young Nerf marksman. He was not seriously injured.

Jones spoke about his career and answered questions from the quests. He encouraged the youth to stay in school and never give up -- even when you're the No. 8 tight end on the depth chart, as Jones was when he joined the 49ers in 1987. He went on to be a four-time Pro Bowler and three-time Super Bowl champion.

Guests fell in love with Jones -- "He was so gracious!" was the most common comment -- but also came away impressed with the teenagers who worked the event. Polite and diligent in their duties, the youngsters underscored the real theme of the evening -- helping West Sacramento youth.

"I can't remember the last time I went to a restaurant and got service this good!" said one guest.

The dinner was designed to raise funds and awareness for the Second Mile Teen Center, a non-profit venture backed by the global youth organization Campus Life. For information on joining the Second Mile Founders' Club, or becoming a volunteer or worker in the growing Second Mile force, please call 375-1153.

RCHS student receives scholarship

Kevin Chan, a senior at River City High School, was recently honored as a scholarship recipient during the Sacramento Area Commerce and Trade Organization's (SACTO) "Inside Business '98" event at the Sacramento Convention Center. Kevin was one of only nine high school students in the region to win scholarships from SACTO. Throughout his high school career, Kevin has been a member of the California Scholastic Federation and has won honors in chemistry, speech and mathematics. He has been accepted at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo. He aspires to a career in architecture.

West Sacramento Mayor Wesley A. Beers made the presentation to Chan on May 19.

MAYOR WES BEERS with KEVIN CHAN

TOM STALLARD
3rd District Supervisor

TOM STALLARD

Dear Friends,

My name is Tom Stallard. I have served as your Yolo County Supervisor since January, 1994. I have successfully operated a local business in Woodland for more than 25 years.

I believe in the future of West Sacramento and its communities. I have accomplished much in my first term in office, and have many more goals for the next four years, including:

- Protecting public safety and crime
- Ensuring that our government is efficient and effective
- Growing our economy in ways that make sense
- Planning for Yolo County's water future
- Protecting farmland from ill-advised development

I ask for your vote on June 2nd.

Thank you.

Tom Stallard

P.S. I have been endorsed by all four of of my colleagues on the Board of Supervisors, including former West Sacramento Mayor Mike McGowan, as well as by the Stationary Engineers, Local 39, and the Woodland Professional Firefighters Association.

Paid for by Tom Stallard for Supervisor, 10 Toyon Drive, Woodland 666-0154 Nancy Muller, Treas.

Applicants sought to serve in leadership posts for Yolo County

Yolo County Supervisor Tom Stallard is seeking interested community members to serve on Yolo County Advisory Board and Commissions. Third District vacancies exist on the Commission on Aging, Health Council, Board of Trustees of the Yolo County Historical Museum, and the Social Services Advisory Board.

The Commission on Aging acts in an advisory capacity to the Board of Supervisors by studying, evaluating, and making recommendations on grant and program proposals affecting the well-being of senior citizens' programs in Yolo County. Areas of interest include nutrition, transportation, health, housing and recreation.

The Health Council makes recommendations to the Board of Supervisors and the Department of Health on public-health needs and resources. The council is responsible for advising and reviewing public health issues facing the county, as well as advocating for action to coordinate and make maximum, efficient use of existing and planned facilities, and personnel in the fields of physical, mental and environmental health.

The Board of Trustees of the Yolo County Historical Museum approves the development and implementation of the Master Plan of the Yolo County Historical Museum, adopts the annual budget, and conducts fundraising activities.

The Social Services Advisory Board advocates for persons in need of welfare services and educates the public regarding welfare services for outreach to potential clients and for interpretation of the need for services. The Advisory Board makes recommendations to the Board of Supervisors to analyze changes and to provide feedback to influence the development of needed services.

"Our advisory board and commissions provide a valuable service to the Board of Supervisors," Supervisor Stallard stated. "I certainly appreciate the willingness of community members to step forward in this important role."

Those interested in an application may call Jean Hurst, aide to Supervisor Stallard, at (530) 666-8230.

behind to upset the more experienced seniors, 6-7, 6-4 and 6-3.

Other highlights were provided by relatively inexperienced Raider girls doubles teams reaching the semifinals.

Seeded fourth, junior Sue Yang and freshman Sopkin Phoung defeated a Lindhurst team 6-2, 7-6 in their quarterfinal before falling to Colfax's number one seeded team. An RC team of freshmen Erin Cheechov (#7 on the team) and Ka Yang (#10) nearly pulled off one of the greatest upsets in tournament history, as they got past Golden Sierra in the first round and shocked #3 seeded Lincoln 6-4, 6-7, 6-2 in the quarterfinals. In the semifinal, they led a #2 seeded Lindhurst team midway through the third set and came just short of victory, falling 6-4, 5-7, 4-6.

On Wednesday, top teams from more than 30 schools in the Sac-Joaquin Section converged in Stockton for the Division III tournament. Xayasone lost a tough three set match to Lily Schroeder of Ripon in the first round, while Lattasima was bounced in the quarterfinals by Sara Bahktary of Mira Loma.

The Raider boys doubles teams each won once before being eliminated.

This week, the Raiders compete in section championships. As G.E.L. champions, they receive a first round "bye" and will open with Justin-Siena of Napa in a quarterfinal contest. The Section Final Four will be in Stockton tomorrow.

In uniform

Navy Seaman Timmothy Tackett, son of Terri Tackett of West Sacramento, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Tackett completed a variety of training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, fire fighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis is also placed on physical fitness.

Timmothy is a graduate of River City High School.

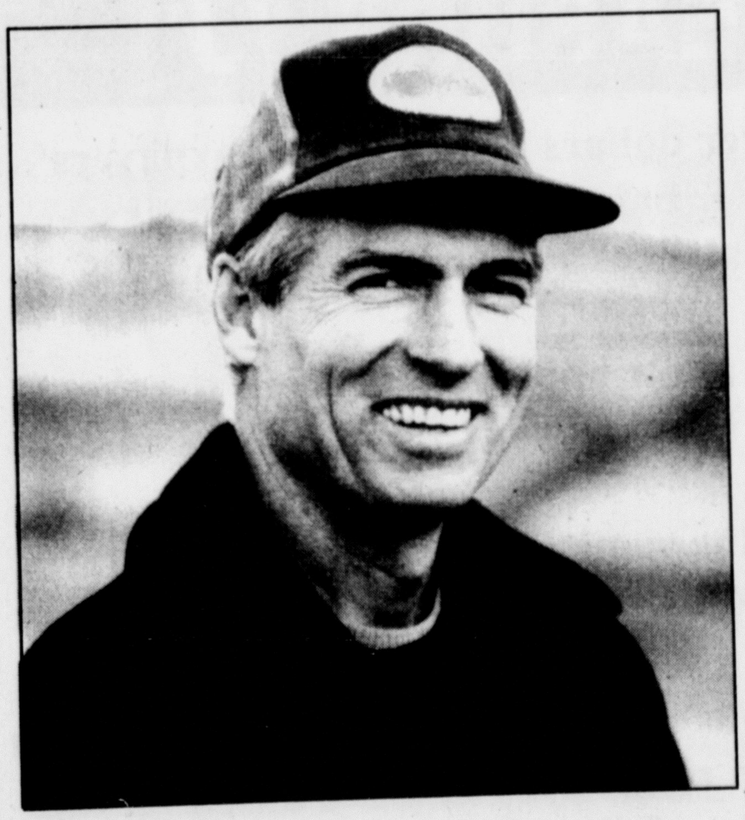
Howard Beeman for Congress



Farmer

Howard Beeman and his wife, Susan Pelican, have farmed in Woodland for 25 years and produced over 17 different crops, many of them organically. They are converting their family land into a 320-acre wildlife restoration project.

Howard is adamant that we prevent CALFED from becoming a mechanism for shipping our water to Southern California. We need our water to irrigate our fields, provide water to our cities, and maintain our wetland and river habitats.

Veteran

Howard is a decorated Vietnam veteran. He served two years of active duty in the Corps of Engineers. He twice served as platoon leader and once as company commander.

Democrat

Howard has been politically active in the Democratic party for over 20 years, most recently for Victor Morales' 1996 Texas Senate campaign. He recognizes that we must act aggressively to improve education, protect the environment and preserve irreplaceable farmland.

"Howard will work with those he represents to show that people working together can be more potent than the dollars spent by special interests. He will secure campaign finance reform and healthcare coverage for all, strengthen our social security and empower our local communities to rebuild our education system."
Grace Olson, former West Sacramento School Board member and Los Rios Community College Trustee

"I've known Howard since the seventh grade, and he has always been a classmate and friend that I looked to as a model: a dependable person who accomplished whatever he set his mind to."
Melton Losoya, Vice-Mayor of Woodland

"Howard was one of the pioneer organic farmers in Yolo County, and his concern for education is shown in the commitment he made to his kids' school. We could use some leadership like that in Congress."
Charlie Rominger, Yolo County farmer

FACTS ABOUT MEASURE "J"

1. Taxpayer dollars belong to the taxpayers' checks & balances system. The checks & balances system is important.

2. Don't allow appointed officials to take away your rights.

3. In 1986, the same appointment proposal was defeated by the voters of Yolo County.

4. When you elect a tax collector or auditor, you always can remove them at the ballot box if they fail to do a good job.

5. The voters can't remove an appointed official, and as a consequence, they are at the mercy of the Board of Supervisors.

6. Don't be fooled by smooth talk and promises.

and stay in shape. The doctors are still hopeful that Alex will be able to walk someday. He is going to have more water therapy this summer and I want him to be as independent as possible. He washes his own clothes now and even cooks for himself. But his friends like to push him wherever he goes and that's not good for him. It's not good to baby him."

After Alex graduates from high school, he plans on attending junior college and taking computer classes. "I want to learn how to fix and program computers," said Alex. "I also want to lose 50 pounds this summer and get back into therapy. I haven't given up the hope of walking someday and the doctors say a lot of it is up to me. I guess if you try real hard, almost anything is possible."

"Don't ever underestimate Alex," said Mark Palamedessi, another one of Alex's many friends. "He's got a good sense of humor and a good attitude, and those two things can take you a long ways."

The only thing Alex really regrets about spending so many years in a wheelchair is that he never was able to play sports. "I really love sports," said Alex, "especially football and baseball. I watch them all the time on TV, and I sure would have liked to have been able to play them. But no one gets everything they wish for. I always remind myself that I'm lucky in a lot of other ways."

Alex's grandmother retired from the DMV in 1981 and it wasn't long before she committed herself to taking care of Alex and making sure he had every chance to have as normal a life as possible. "Easter Seals has helped a lot, as well as Shriners and the Medical Center," explained Isabel, "but the most important thing has been Alex's attitude. He's a good boy and everyone likes him. He's grown up to be handsome, too, and someday he's going to meet the right girl and make a good husband and father."

"I don't know what I would do without my grandmother," said Alex. "She has always been there for me. Everyone should be so lucky to have a grandmother like her."

"In our district, we don't really have such programs as the initiative calls for," he said. "Schools should provide some help (in learning English), but this is America, and in English should be the main language."

In contrast, Zolnikov opposes Prop. 223, which places a cap on how much school districts can spend on their administration.

"Small school districts are going to be hurt," he said.

acclimated to the English language," said Farmer, adding that students come to Washington Unified from backgrounds in 26 different languages.

Farmer is married and has a daughter at River City High School and a son at Holy Cross School, a parochial school in West Sacramento.

"We wanted to give both our children the religious training that comes with Catholic schooling," he said.

Just as his daughter transferred to public school after the early grades, he said, his son may do the same.

Carolyn Pfanner for Yolo County Clerk-Recorder

I BELIEVE:

■ The incumbent has given the best he has to offer during his three terms in office, and that it is time to let someone else improve on those areas in which he has not been strong.

■ Modernization of an office means more than installing computers. We need modernization of election safeguards and office procedures as well.

Endorsed by many fine West Sacramentans, including two who know best the damage caused by an error in the election process (Nov., 1996, West Sacramento City Council mix-up).

MARK MONTEMAYOR: "I am endorsing Carolyn because she is willing to explore new ideas and is open to new alternatives in the election process to improve things. No one should ever have to go through an election like Marna Miller and I did again."

MARNA MILLER: "Working people are tired of hearing high paid public officials make excuses for their incompetence. It's time Yolo has a change for the better."

GEORGE DeMARS, Former Supervisor: "Carolyn is honest and effective; she will serve the county well."

HUGH KING: "We need new people and new ideas, it's time for a change."

GEORGE D. STEWART: "Let's elect Carolyn Pfanner. She will treat West Sacramento fairly. No more botched elections."

OTHER ENDORSEMENTS:
Hugh and Katy Mickelson
Joseph Borges, Jr.

But the most important endorsement I need is yours, on June 2nd!

Yolo County's Students and their futures will be in excellent hands if Suzanne is elected.
- Congressman Vic Fazio

Suzanne Falzone's many years of highly successful administrative experience at all grade levels will serve her well as Yolo County Superintendent of Schools.
- Floyd Fenocchio, Superintendent, Davis JUSD

She is a master planner and a persistent and creative problem solver. She is able to see the best in people and draw it out of them. That's the kind of leader we all want!
- Sally J. Paul, 1998 Yolo County Teacher of the Year

She has the skills and educational experiences which will make her an effective County Superintendent
- Elizabeth Zemmels, Ed. D, Yolo County Superintendent of Schools

Suzanne Falzone is an administrator who finds ways for students to have power over what they learn, how they learn it and to examine and reflect upon what they have done.
- Anita Westenbarger, Teacher, West Side School

With her 30 years of experience at every level from preschool through adult education, her leadership skills, her people skills and her management skills, Suzanne Falzone is the most qualified candidate for the Yolo County Superintendent of Schools.
- Robert S. Watt, Ed. D, Retired Superintendent, Woodland JUSD

Suzanne Falzone has the qualities needed by those in education today: courage to try new approaches and to work with many different groups in the community to form new partnerships that allow for more community involvement by students and staff.
- Betsy Marchand, Retired, Yolo County Board of Supervisors

Our Schools must meet the needs of ALL our children.
Suzanne will do that through
Getting more resources directly to the classroom,
Mutually beneficial partnerships with business and industry,
Instructional alternatives that improve student learning,
Safe and drug free schools,
Saving districts money,
Accountability from the classroom to the board room.
